UNDERSTANDING THE FEDERAL COURTS

Exh. #7.1

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE OF THE U.S. COURTS

THE JURISDICTION OF THE FEDERAL COURTS

Before a federal court can hear a case, or "exercise its jurisdiction," certain conditions must be met.

First, under the Constitution, federal courts exercise only "judicial" powers. This means that federal judges may interpret the law only through the resolution of actual legal disputes, referred to in Article III of the Constitution
as "Cases or Controversies."
A court cannot attempt to correct a problem on its own initiative, or to answer a hypothetical legal question.

Second, in an actual case or controversy, the plaintiff in a federal lawsuit also must have legal "standing" to ask the court for a decision. That means the plaintiff must have been aggrieved, or legally harmed in some way, by the defendant.

Third, the case must present a category of dispute that the law in question was designed to address, and it must be a complaint that the court has the power to remedy. In other words, the court must be authorized, under the Constitution or a federal law, to hear the case and grant appropriate relief to the plaintiff.

Finally, the case cannot be "moot," that is, it must present an ongoing problem for the court to resolve. The federal courts, thus, are courts of "limited" jurisdiction because they may only decide certain types of cases as provided by Congress or as identified in the Constitution.

Although the details of the complex web of federal jurisdiction that Congress has given the federal courts is beyond the scope of this brief guide, it is important to understand that there are two main sources of the cases coming before the federal courts: "federal question" jurisdiction and "diversity" jurisdiction.

In general, federal question jurisdiction arises in cases that involve the U.S. government, the U.S. Constitution or federal laws, or controversies between states or between the United States and foreign governments. A case that raises such a "federal question" may be filed in federal court. Examples of such cases might include a claim by an individual for entitlement to money under a federal government program such as Social Security, a criminal prosecution by the government that alleges someone violated a federal law, or a challenge to actions taken by a federal agency.

A case also may be filed in federal court based on the "diversity of citizenship"

Exh. #7.2

Federal Question Jurisdiction

Overview

Federal question jurisdiction is one of the two ways for a federal court to gain subjectmatter jurisdiction over a case (the other way is through diversity jurisdiction). Generally, in order for federal question jurisdiction to exist, the cause of action must arise under federal law. More specifically, however, there are both constitutional and statutory requirements that must be met before jurisdiction can be found.

Interpreting "Arising Under" - Constitutional Requirement

Under Article III of the Constitution, federal courts can hear "all cases, in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, [and] the laws of the United States..." US Const, Art III, Sec 2. The Supreme Court has interpreted this clause broadly, finding that it allows federal courts to hear any case in which there is a federal ingredient. Osborn v. Bank of the United States, 9 Wheat. (22 U.S.) 738 (1824).

28 USC 1331 - The Statutory Component

For federal question jurisdiction to exist, the requirements of 28 USC 1331 must also be met. This statute gives federal courts jurisdiction only to those cases which "aris[e] under" federal law. 28 USC 1331. This requirement has been found to be narrower than the requirements of the constitution. The Supreme Court has found that a "suit arises under the law that creates the cause of action," American Well Works v. Layne, 241 US 257 (1916), and therefore, only suits based on federal law, not state law suits, are most likely to create federal question jurisdiction, Louisville & Nashville R. Co. v. Mottley, 211 U.S. 149 (1908).

Well-Pleaded Complaint Rule

Typically, in order to have federal question jurisdiction, the plaintiff's complaint must be a well-pleaded one. This means that the plaintiff's initial complaint must contain the references to the federal question and the federal issue evoked. The federal question and issue cannot arise in an anticipated defense, it must be presented from the initial complaint. This requirement was established in Louisville & Nashville R. Co. v. Mottley, and as such it is often referred to as the "Mottley Rule."

Grable Test

Another test that courts will often use to determine federal question jurisdiction is called the Grable Test, established in Grable & Sons Metal Products, Inc. v. Darue Engingeering & Manufacturing. This is a two-part test

§ 1-206. Presumptions.

Whenever the Uniform Commercial Code creates a "presumption" with respect to a fact, or provides that a fact is "presumed," the trier of fact must find the existence of the fact unless and until evidence is introduced that supports a finding of its nonexistence.

§ 1-304. Obligation of Good Faith.

Every contract or duty within the Uniform Commercial Code imposes an obligation of good faith in its performance and enforcement.

< § 1-303. Course of Performance, Course of Dealing, and Usage of Trade. up § 1-305. Remedies to be Liberally Administered. >

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER

This criminal case is before the Court on the government's Motion in Limine to Prohibit Jurisdictional Argument [Doc. 78]. This is the only motion in limine filed in this case, and the deadline for filing further motions in limine has now passed [Doc. 77 p. 2]. The Court held a final pretrial conference on January 12, at which the defendants requested additional time to review and respond to the government's motion. The Court granted this request and ordered the defendants to file any responses to the government's motion by January 16. Defendant Heather Ann Tucci-Jarraf has now filed a response brief [Doc. 86], as well as an additional filing that the Court likewise construes as a response [Doc. 81]. Defendant Randall Beane has not responded to the government's motion. For the reasons explained below, the Court will grant the government's motion in limine.

I. Standard of Review

"Motions in limine allow the Court to rule on evidentiary issues prior to trial in order to avoid delay and focus pertinent issues for the jury's consider

Exh. #11.1

III. Conclusion

Accordingly, the Court hereby GRANTS the government's Motion in Limine to Prohibit Jurisdictional Argument [Doc. 78]. It is therefore ORDERED that the defendants are prohibited from offering any evidence, testimony, or argument at trial concerning the following subjects: (1) whether this Court has subject-matter jurisdiction over these proceedings; (2) whether the United States government is defaulted, has been foreclosed, or is otherwise legally impaired; and (3) whether the United States government has legal authority to bring a prosecution of the defendants for the charged offenses.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Standing

Overview

Standing, or locus standi, is capacity of a party to bring suit in court.

Standing in State Court

A state's statutes will determine what constitutes standing in that particular state's courts. These typically revolve around the requirement that plaintiffs have sustained or will sustain direct injury or harm and that this harm is redressable.

Standing in Federal Court

At the federal level, legal actions cannot be brought simply on the ground that an individual or group is displeased with a government action or law. Federal courts only have constitutional authority to resolve actual disputes (see Case or Controversy).

In Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife (90-1424), 504 U.S. 555 (1992), the Supreme Court created a three-part test to determine whether a party has standing to sue:

- 1. The plaintiff must have suffered an "injury in fact," meaning that the injury is of a legally protected interest which is (a) concrete and particularized and (b) actual or imminent
- 2. There must be a causal connection between the injury and the conduct brought before the court
- 3. It must be likely, rather than speculative, that a favorable decision by the court will redress the injury

Further Reading

For Supreme Court decisions focusing on the "standing" issue, see, e.g., County of Riverside v. McLaughlin, 500 U.S. 44 (1991), Northeastern Fla. Chapter of the Associated Gen. Contractors v. City of Jacksonville, 508 U.S. 656 (1993) and Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555 (1992).

there in Farragut.

- Q Okay. Did someone from the FBI actually reach out to Buddy Gregg?
- A Yes, ma'am. It's my understanding that we did reach out. Someone from our office did reach out to Buddy Gregg.
 - Q And what was your goal in reaching out to them?
- A So if I may back up just one step there, Ms. Davidson.

So our goal in reaching out to them, at the time, we had information that the motor home was there or going to be there. So in an effort to find out that additional information, that's why they were reached out to, just to determine where the motor home was at the time.

- Q Okay. And were you seeking not only to find the defendant, but also to protect the asset?
- A Oh, absolutely. So, I mean, in this case, we had half a mill -- half-a-million-dollar motor home. And what our goal is to, a lot of times in these victim cases is, we want to recover the asset for the victim. In this case, USAA is our victim, and we have -- we know where the motor home is located. Absolutely right.

We had multiple issues. One is safety. The -- if Mr. Beane had gotten out on the open road, we had -- we don't know. I mean, at this time, we don't know. We know he used funds to purchase a -- used stolen funds to purchase an RV. We don't know anything else about, you know, what his ultimate intent with that. It's 45 feet. You know, you can imagine our -- what, you know -- the possibilities are unlimited.

And absolutely, we want to recover an asset for the victim in any case. That's always one of our -- we want to prosecute the bad guys and we want to get the assets.

Absolutely right. That's what the American public expects of us.

Q Okay. And so did you learn from Buddy Gregg that the defendant was coming to pick the RV up?

A We did. So our office is -- had information that later in the day or at some time Mr. Beane would be out there to purchase -- to pick that RV up. And to the point where my -- at this point, I'm drafting an affidavit to put together so we can go try to seize the motor home.

Q Okay. And did you have to act quick and go to get Mr. Beane?

A Yeah. We did. We -- absolutely. So we had information that came -- it was relayed down to me. So I'm at the computer there working on this affidavit to go seize the motor home. I think I'm speaking with Ms. Svolto and I primarily and as you, Ms. Davidson, so we're getting this information in.

All of a sudden, we have information that Buddy Gregg is going to turn it over or he is going to leave in this motor home. So, yeah, it was similar to a bank robbery. I grabbed Special Agent Jimmy Durand. We literally run towards the door.

Because, I mean, you got to understand where we're at on this. We've got a motor home, an asset that is potentially -- we don't know where it's going to be. And you say, well, it's a 45-foot motor home. You may be able to find it. I don't know. You just don't know. You don't know if these things could be stripped down. A million different things could happen.

So I literally jump up from the computer, I grab

Jimmy, and we start running towards the door to go out and stop this transaction from taking place.

In the meantime, in the parking garage, we literally go down our steps, I come across Special Agent Jason Pack, Special Agent Joelle Vehec. I say, "Come with us. We've got to get out to Buddy Gregg. We've got -- the motor home is leaving." Task Force Officer Jaron Patterson is also involved, and I think additional Knox County deputies were contacted all in this time frame.

So we're out trying -- yes, we're flying down 40, lights on, to get out there and stop this transaction.

Q Okay. And before you went out there, did you do a records search to see whether or not there was an outstanding warrant?

A Yeah. Our office did. There was -- it was

A He did. He continued to resist. Even while Jimmy was putting the cuffs on him at the end, he was continuing -- you know, ultimately, he did stop resisting once Jimmy was able to get his arms -- hands behind his back.

Q Did you have to put him on the ground?

A He did. He was what we refer to as proned out. You know, I mean, he was out on the concrete right there on the side there.

Q Okay. Were you -- after he was arrested, were you asked to contact anyone by the defendant's friends?

A Yes. I was provided a piece of paper with the name Heather on it. And it contained a phone number. And at this time, it was represented at the scene to us that this was an attorney or someone we should call, yes, ma'am.

Q Okay. And I'm going to show you what's marked as Government's Exhibit 1. If you look in front of you, there's an exhibit folder.

- A Okay.
- Q And just turn to No. 1.
- A Okay. I'm there.

 Mr. Beane was on the day that was purchased with stolen money.

of them that we are bound by, the United States Constitution, the FBI internal rules, Department of Justice, big umbrella, you know, that we fall under. State of Tennessee, you know, I mean, there's a lot of rules and regulations out there.

Q Okay. And what are the laws regarding an arrest, a physical arrest and detainment? What are the actual criminal rules of procedure that you are required to follow, such as a warrant to be able to take that, do you have to have a warrant to be able to arrest someone?

A No, ma'am. I can arrest someone on probable cause without a warrant. I don't need a warrant to arrest someone.

Q Okay. But let's go into the probable cause. That day, do you believe that you had probable cause that day to arrest Randy Keith Beane?

A Without a doubt, ma'am. He is sitting in a vehicle purchased with stolen money with the vehicle running. You better believe I had probable cause. I saw it with my own two eyes.

Q Okay. And you stated that you -- that there are basically two ways that you receive cases. You stated, one, that you receive complaints, you rely on private citizens making complaints, and the second one was that -- the second one was that banks and institutions are a big source of your cases received. Is that correct?

A Yes, ma'am. That's correct. But we do receive cases their career, is they go work for financial institutions.

- Q Uh-huh. Okay. So on July 11th, let's go to that date --
 - A Yes, ma'am.
 - Q -- if you would.
 - A Sure.

Q Now, you stated you were working on an affidavit to seize this vehicle. You said it was 45 feet long. You were concerned about safety if this vehicle had gotten out, you know, it's 45 feet long, it could hurt someone, it could -- you never know. And you wanted -- you're always there to protect?

A You never know. Looking to what just happened in New York with somebody mowing people down, that stuff's going on everywhere. We don't know. We know a vehicle is purchased with stolen funds and we do not know what the intent of that individual is to use with that vehicle.

- Q So what actual information, when you were writing this affidavit, okay, for the seizure of the vehicle --
 - A Right.
- Q -- what actual information had you received that there was actually a possible crime committed by Mr. Beane to believe that the RV wasn't his?
- A The information primarily from what I've stated from USAA at the time. That's what we were relying on, that information from USAA that is telling us that their money has been stolen.

We're conducting an interview with Mr. Brown, at this time who you're referencing, to get all that information, yes, ma'am.
- Q Okay. So you found out about the funds approximately the 10th?
 - A Uh-huh.
- And on the 11th, you didn't have any kind of written report from USAA, just that someone had stolen their money.
- A We had just some -- some basic facts that were provided to us by USAA in a document, yes, ma'am.

- A Uh-huh.
- Q So then I have a question for you, if your -- I get your experience regarding investigating crimes.
 - A Sure.
 - Q Trying to locate them, I appreciate that.
- · A Yes, ma'am.
- Q More than you could know. My question is, is how familiar are you with actual banking, as far as how banking actually works, money transactions actually work, the inner workings of banking? Have you ever worked for a bank?
 - A No, ma'am. I have never worked for a bank.
- Q Okay. Have you ever been an attorney in private capacity, as far as a consultant or any other for a bank?
- A You know, I did work some for a -- I did some work for a bank. I don't know -- I wouldn't go as far as saying I was in-house counsel or anything like that. But I have done work for a bank, yes, ma'am.
 - Q Okay.

they literally went in, took this man out because he believed that USAA Bank was a victim based off of the information.

We're trying to determine what information they had in order to arrest Randall Beane without any kind of warrant at that point.

THE COURT: All right. I'll overrule the objection, since we've gone down this line. Maybe we can finish it up. But go ahead.

MS. TUCCI-JARRAF: Thank you.

THE COURT: Answer the question to the extent you can.

THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor.

Ma'am, the general understanding of the ACH transfer system and a Fedwire, is that your question?

BY MS. TUCCI-JARRAF:

Q My question is, just what is your general understanding -- because were you the one that made the call to go and arrest -- well, to arrest, we'll just say at this point, to arrest Randall Beane and seize the vehicle? Were you the one that made that call?

A You know, I think we -- I spoke to the U.S.

Attorney's Office to let them know what we were on the way to do, yes, ma'am. I -- so I guess, yeah, I did. I was letting know the U.S. Attorney's Office.

I think we're getting a little off track here. I mean, you know, when an FBI gets a call that a bank is getting mean, we don't ask a million questions. We go. That's what we did today or did then.

Q When a bank gets robbed, do you usually have a bank robber and a banker and a gun or some kind of weapon and cash? You're talking about, per Ms. Svolto's opening statement, that he was robbing a bank? I'm asking you, because it appears from what you have said that you believed that he had stolen money using a transfer system that unless you are inside the Federal Reserve Banking System and the IT source code dealing with the source code and all that, most people don't know what it is.

A Yes, ma'am.

Q I'm asking you, because you are the one that supposedly made the call, except for what inference you just tried to make that U.S. attorneys might have some responsibility as --

A No.

Q -- to the events that day, but that you made the call to go in and arrest what you believed was the criminal to protect what you believed at the time was the victim.

You stated that because of documents you had received, which were IP coding and their e-mail, which we don't know what was in it, but that they had been robbed, something to that effect, that you believed that Randall Beane was already a criminal and that the money could not have been his,

to jail.

Q Did you ever provide a copy of that alleged South Carolina outstanding warrant to Ms. Davidson or anyone on the -- at the DOJ?

A You know, I would have to look back on it. What we normally do is we turn our file -- our discovery file over to the prosecutors.

Q Okay. On July 11th, prior to or at any moment, did you ever present a warrant to Mr. Beane or the other unidentified male and unidentified female that you found in that vehicle? Did you ever present an actual paper warrant or electronic warrant to any of those three?

A No, ma'am. And I -- I don't -- I mean, that's -- I think that's some of TV stuff where we serve people, put a warrant in their hands. You know, that's -- I don't -- that's just not general practice where you would, you know, serve someone -- hand someone a warrant, generally.

Q Okay.

A I'm not saying it doesn't happen. I'm just saying, you know, the fact that we -- you know, we've made -- you know, we have -- it's a team effort. We rely on information that is provided to us, and we go out and we do our jobs. And on that day --

Q Sorry.

A Oh, go ahead.

HEATHER ANN TUCCI-JARRAF (18-5752); RANDALL KEITH BEANE (18-5777), Defendants-Appellants.

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Tennessee at Knoxville.

No. 3:17-cr-00082—Thomas A. Varlan, District Judge.

Decided and Filed: September 24, 2019

Before: SUTTON, COOK, and THAPAR, Circuit Judges.

COUNSEL

ON BRIEF: Dennis G. Terez, Beachwood, Ohio, for Appellant in 18-5752. Stephen L. Braga, UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA SCHOOL OF LAW, Charlottesville, Virginia, for Appellant in 18-5777. Anne-Marie Svolto, UNITED STATES ATTORNEY'S OFFICE, Knoxville, Tennessee, for Appellee.

OPINION

SUTTON, Circuit Judge. Faced with financial challenges and rising unpaid bills, the individual has two legal options: shed the debts through the humbling act of filing for bankruptcy or find a new source of assets. Randall Beane, with Heather Tucci-Jarraf's assistance, tried to find a new source of assets: an alleged trust fund of government money in his persuade them that he rightfully owned the money he was spending. Her assurances worked, and the bank stopped cancelling the payments.

But just for a while. By then, as it happens, a federal investigation had begun. On July 11, federal officers learned that Beane planned to drive off the dealership lot in his new motor home. Officers rushed to the scene, arriving just as Beane started the engine. He refused to exit the vehicle, and agents had to remove him. One of the motor home's other occupants provided officers with Tucci-Jarraf's phone number and requested that they contact her. On the phone, Tucci-Jarraf claimed that she was "planning military operations." R. 162 at 37. Officers arrested her in Washington, D.C., where she had gone after contacting the Secret Service to request a meeting with the President.

Beane and Tucci-Jarraf responded to their arrests with a flood of frivolous motions. They demanded hearings on their own identities, the identities of the arresting officers, and the identity of the presiding judge. They asserted that United States courts cannot hold anyone "except by their own consent" and that the United States (a tad more plausibly) is a "bankrupt corporation." R. 61 at 29, 61. They submitted hundreds of pages of pointless Uniform Commercial Code filings, allegedly related to something called "The One People's Public Trust." R. 18. They mailed the court an itemized bill seeking payment of over $46 quintillion dollars. On and on it went. Concerned that such conduct might confuse a jury, the judge granted a motion in limine that barred the defendants from raising similar arguments at trial.

Beane and Tucci-Jarraf asked to represent themselves. The judge held a hearing for each of them, complete with the standard-issue inquiries and cautions about self-representation. The defendants provided some unusual answers, but after an extended colloquy the judge concluded that they had knowingly and intelligently waived their right to counsel. He granted their requests. As a safeguard, he granted their request to appoint standby counsel, who can help the defendant during the trial and who can take over if the judge ends the defendant's self-representation. See McKaskle v. Wiggins, 465 U.S. 168, 176–78 (1984).

The defendants did their best. They cross-examined the government's witnesses, introduced evidence, testified on their own behalf, and used their closing statements to justify their worldview. But their best was not good enough. The jury convicted Beane of bank and wire fraud, 18 U.S.C. §§ 1343, 1344, and both defendants of conspiracy to commit money laundering, id. § 1956(h).

The court sentenced Beane to 155 months and ordered him to pay over a half-million dollars in restitution. The court sentenced Tucci-Jarraf to 57 months.

 Π

Beane and Tucci-Jarraf have had second thoughts about representing themselves. On appeal, they argue that the trial judge should have saved them from themselves. No cause for reversal has been shown.

The right to counsel of the Sixth Amendment has paternalistic and libertarian components to it. On one side, all defendants have the right to counsel in criminal cases, along with the right to have the government appoint counsel if the defendant cannot afford it, all to the end of ensuring that the government does not remove someone's liberty to live freely in society without sound legal representation. U.S. Const. amend. VI; see Gideon v. Wainwright, 372 U.S. 335, 344 (1963). On the other side, all defendants, whether lawyers or not, have a right to represent themselves—what amounts to the right to reject counsel and to confront the government alone. See Faretta v. California, 422 U.S. 806, 817–18 (1975). Vindication of the goals of the second option often comes at the expense of the goals of the first.

Look no further than one reality of self-representation to see the tension. While the Sixth Amendment guarantees a minimum level of competence that all criminal defense lawyers must meet during a criminal case, see Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 686 (1984), that guarantee does not apply to self-representation, see Faretta, 422 U.S. at 834 n.46. The right to waive counsel includes the right to waive effective counsel. The self-lawyer thus is free to behave as the eccentric his client selected, and that is no concern of the Sixth Amendment. See Wiggins, 465 U.S. at 177 n.8. Libertarian indeed.

All of this confirms that, generally speaking, the only way out of the consequences of bad representation in a self-represented criminal trial is proof that the trial court erred in letting the

CHAPTER 73

INVESTIGATIONS BY LEGISLATIVE BODIES

Sec. 795. Right of a Legislative Body to Make Investigations

1. The right of a legislative body to make investigations in order to assist it in the preparation of wise and timely laws must exist as an indispensable incident and auxiliary to the proper exercise of legislative power.
This has been recognized from the earliest times in the history of U.S. legislation, both federal and state, and from even earlier epochs in the development of British jurisprudence.

2. The legislature has the power to investigate any subject regarding which it may desire information in connection with the proper discharge of its function to enact, amend or repeal statutes or to perform any other act delegated to it by the constitution.

Judicial Officers

The district judges of our court are Article III judges, that is, they are appointed by the President of the United States, with approval of the Senate, under authority of Article III of the United States Constitution. They are appointed to lifetime terms.

We also have magistrate judges. They are appointed by the district judges and serve eight-year terms. Their duties are much like those of the district judges, except they do not have authority to try criminal cases, except misdemeanors. They can try civil cases by consent of the parties and do try a number of civil cases each year.

Q So, then, ACH credits are given to USAA in this particular instance. Is that what you're saying?

A So in this particular instance, USAA received a credit, but basically what they did is they debited out of the Ginnie Mae's securities account at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and they pulled $30.5 million out of the account in 30-some-odd tranches, and each one of those ACH debits that were pulled out of the Ginnie Mae securities had to be returned within a two-day window, and they were, so that USAA -- the funds were taken back out of the USAA account, put back in the Ginnie Mae securities account, and there was no loss to the U.S. government.

Q What is Ginnie Mae securities account?

A That is the account -- the routing number of the account that was debited.

Q Okay. So each routing number of all 12 Federal Reserve Banks, they all go to the Ginnie Mae's securities account?

A No. So the ACH fraud started out by people looking up Federal Reserve routing numbers and using those routing numbers to debit or pull money out of those routing numbers. It morphed into looking for any U.S. government routing number and then they started pulling it from the various different routing numbers that we talked about, U.S. -- the Federal it had been brought there by original process. And any attachment of the goods or estate of the defendant, by the original process, shall hold the goods or estate so attached, to answer the final judgment, in the same manner as by the laws of such state they would have been holden to answer final judgment, had it been rendered by the circuit court in which the suit commenced. Vide Act of September 24, 1789, 12; 4 Dall. 11; 5 Cranch, 303; 4 Johns. R. 493; 1 Pet. R. 220; 2 Yeates, R. 275; 4 W. C. C. R. 286, 344.

- 85. By the Constitution, art. 3, 2, 1, the judicial power shall extend to controversies between citizens of the same state, claiming lands under grants of different states.
- 86. By a clause of the 12th section of the Act of September 24th, 1789, it is enacted, that, if in any action commenced in a state court, the title of land be concerned, and the parties are citizens of the same state, and the matter in dispute exceeds the sum or value of five hundred dollars, exclusive of costs, the sum or value being made to appear to the satisfaction of the court, either party, before the trial, shall state to the court, and make affidavit, if it require it, that he claims, and shall rely upon a right or title to the land, under grant from a state, other than that in which the suit is pending, and produce the original grant, or an exemplification of it, except where the loss of records shall put it out of his power, and shall move that the adverse party inform the court, whether he claims a right of title to the land under a grant from the state in which the suit is pending; the said adverse party shall give such information, otherwise not be allowed to plead such grant, or give it in evidence upon the trial; and if he informs that he does claim under any such grant, the party claiming under the grant first mentioned, may then, on motion, remove the cause for trial, to the next circuit court to be holden in such district. But if he is the defendant, he shall do it under the same regulations, as in the before mentioned case of the removal of a cause into such court by an alien. And neither party removing the cause shall be allowed to plead, or give evidence of, any other title than that by him stated as aforesaid, as the ground of his claim. See 9 Cranch, 292 2 Wheat. R. 378.
- 87. Application for removal must be made during the term at which the defendant enters his appearance. 1 J. J. Marsh. 232. If a state court agree to consider a petition to remove the cause as filed of the preceding term, yet if the circuit court see by the record, that it was not filed till a subsequent term, they will not permit the cause to be docketed. Pet. C., C. R. 44 Paine, 410 but see 2 Penning. 625.
- 88. In chancery, when the defendant wishes to remove the suit, he must file his petition when he enters his appearance; 4 Johns. Ch. 94; and in an action in a court of law, at the time of putting in special bail. 12 Johns. 153. And if an alien file his petition when he filed special bail, he is in time, though the bail be excepted to. 1 Caines, 248; Coleman, 58. A defendant in ejectment may file his petition. when he is let in to defend. 4 Johns. 493. See Pet. C. C. R. 220; 2 Wash. C. C. R. 463; 2 Yeates, 275, 352; 3 Dall. 467; 4 Wash. C. C. R. 286; 2 Root 444; 5 John. Ch. R. 300 3 Harn. 48; 4 Wash. C. C. R. 84. 3d. Remedy by Mandamus.
- 89. The power of the circuit Court to issue a mandamus, is confined, exclusively, to cases in which it may be necessary for the exercise of a jurisdiction already existing; as, for instance, if the court below refuse to proceed to judgment, then a mandamus in the nature of a procedendo may issue. 7 Cranch, 504; 6 Wheat. R. 598. After the state court had refused to permit the removal of a cause on petition, the circuit the cause.

4th. Appellate Jurisdiction.

Exh. #27.1

90. The appellate jurisdiction is exercised by means of, 1. Writs of error. 2 Appeals from the district courts in admiralty and maritime jurisdiction. 3. Certiorari. 4. Procedendo.

- 91. [l.] This court has jurisdiction to issue writs of error to the district court, on judgments of that court in civil cases at common law.
- 92. The 11th section of the Act of September 24, 1789, provides, that the circuit courts shall also have appellate jurisdiction from the district courts, under the regulations and restrictions thereinafter provided.
- 93. By the 22d section, final decrees and judgments in civil actions in a district court, where the matter in dispute exceeds the, sum or value of fifty dollars, exclusive of costs, may be reexamined, and reversed or affirmed in a circuit court holden in the same district, upon a writ of error, whereto shall be annexed and returned therewith at the day and place therein mentioned, an authenticated transcript of the record and assignment of errors, and prayer for reversal, with a citation to the adverse party, signed by the judge of such district court, or a justice of the supreme court, the adverse party having at least twenty days notice. But there shall be no reversal on such writ of error, for error in ruling any plea in abatement, other than a plea to the jurisdiction of the court, or for any error in fact. And writs of error shall not be brought but within five years after rendering or passing the judgment or decree complained of; or, in case the person entitled to such writ of error be an infant, non compos mentis, or imprisoned, then within five years, as aforesaid, exclusive of the time of such disability. And every justice or judge signing a citation or any writ of error as aforesaid, shall take good and sufficient security, that the plaintiff in error shall prosecute his writ to effect, and answer all damages and costs, if he fail to make his plea good.
- 94. The district judge cannot sit in the circuit court on a writ of error to the district court. 5 Wheat. R. 434.
- 95. It is observed above, that writs of error may be issued to the district court in civil cases at common law, but a writ of error does not lie from a circuit to a district court in an admiralty or maritime cause. 1 Gall. R. 5..
- 96. [2.] Appeals from the district to the circuit court take place generally in civil causes of admiralty or maritime jurisdiction.
- 97. By the Act of March 3, 1803, 2, it is enacted, that from all final judgments or decrees in any of the district courts of the United States, an appeal where the matter in dispute, exclusive of costs, shall exceed the sum or value of fifty dollars, shall be allowed to the district court next to be holden in the district where such final judgment or judgments, decree or decrees shall be rendered: and the circuit courts are thereby authorized and required, to hear and determine such appeals.
- 98. [3.] Although no act of congress authorizes the circuit court to, issue a certiorari to the district court for the removal of a cause, yet if the cause be so removed, and instead of taking advantage of the irregularity in proper time and in a proper manner, the defendant makes the defence and pleads to issue, he thereby waives the objection, and the suit will be considered as an original one in the circuit court, made so by consent of parties. 2 Wheat. R. 221.
- 99.-[4.1 The circuit court may issue a writ of procedendo to the district court.

Equity Jurisdiction of the Circuit Courts.

Exh. #27.2

100. Circuit courts are vested with equity jurisdiction in certain cases. The Act of September, 1789, 11, gives original cognizance, concurrent with the courts of the several states, of all suits of a civil nature at common law or in equity, where the matter in dispute exceeds, exclusive of costs, the sum or value of five hundred dollars, and the United States are plaintiffs or petitioners, or an alien is a party, or. the suit is between a citizen of the state where the
